The San Francisco Board of Supervisors accepted some recommendations 4 through 14, but declined others, including recommendation 18. Chair Supervisor Malia Cohen opened the hearing with a statement.

Allegra Fortunati, a member of the board, said she appreciated the recent changes but cautioned that the board would need about a year to judge whether the changes were worth the cost.

Representatives from the mayor's office and the board of a public nonvoting COIT meeting said that several recommendations — including recommendation 18 — were unwarranted or likely to create more problems than they solved.

Miguel Gamino of the Department of Public Works said that recommendation 13 will be implemented," adding that the board will be presented at the appropriate time.

Supervisor Campos pressed the board to consider the city CIO or adding clearer oversight to the investments citywide rather than just focusing on Technology (COIT) and improving the way the board discuss other options offline.

The public comment period in the hearing was short, with one commenter suggested civil grand jury concerns about COIT meeting transparency.

After discussion, supervisors voted on the recommendations; Rec. 6 — implemented; Rec. 7 — implemented and ongoing; Rec. 8 — implemented; Rec. 14, 15 and 17 — will not be implemented; Rec. 18 — a motion updating the official record will be passed.

The board's actions update the official record, signaling continued oversight of the city's technology investments.

The clerk will file the updated minutes.
